

Donkey Christmas Ken: A Maritime History Christmas Folly

In the annals of maritime history, there are many strange and wonderful tales. One of the most unusual is the story of Donkey Christmas Ken, a stuffed donkey that became a beloved Christmas tradition on the Canadian schooner Bluenose.

The Legend of Donkey Christmas Ken

The story of Donkey Christmas Ken begins in the early 1900s, when Captain Angus Walters was the master of the Bluenose. Walters was a kind and generous man, and he loved to make the Christmas season special for his crew. One year, he decided to buy a stuffed donkey for the ship's Christmas tree.
